W. Burnett, of Charleston, while in the city a few hours to-day, said in an interances. Here some very entertaining posview that a warrant for his arrest the murder of Rev. Thomas P. Ryan, of Roane county, had been sworn out by Ryan's son Thomas. Warrants have also been sworn out for the arrest, on the same charge, of Robert Cunningham, of West charge, of Robert Cunningham, of West Union, Doddridge county, Dan Cunningham and one or two other men. It is evidently a bluff game, for Burnett was in the Odd Fellows hall at Charleston on the night of the murder. The grand jury meets to-morrow at Spencer and Burnett will be there in person to answer any and all charges. He carries a sixteen-shooter, Winchester rifle and two revolvers, and is determined that the mob shall never get its hands on him. He says that the trouble seems only to have commenced.

This was thought strange, but to add to the sensational part of the affair the young woman was found Friday upparently dying from the effects of morphine or some mineral police. The New York Star says it is going to take hold of its Grant monument fund with tenewed energy and run it up to $125,000 as originally intended. It is a good but discouraging work the Star is engaged in. Its fund up to date is $7,400, and of late it has shown no sign of health.

Francois Paul Jules Grevy, whose resignation will be sent in Thursday, elected President of the French Republic January 30, 1879, was re-elected for the term of seven years on December 28, 1885.

M. Grevy was born August 15, 1813, at Mont-sous-Vaudrey, in the department of Jura. He studied law in Paris, and on the broaking out of the revolution in 1848, he was appointed, by the Provisional Government, Commissioner for the Jura, and was subsequently returned by that department to the Constituent Assembly and became its Vice-President. He voted against the expedition to Rome, and supported the view that the powers of the Executive of the Republic should be limited as far as practicable.

Takes Possession of a Passenger Train and Torrorizes Thirty Travelers.

Salt Lake, Utah, Nov. 27.—There was an exciting time on the Denver & Rio Grande west bound train to-day. A Chinaman named Lee Shung locked himself in a closet thirty miles east of Grand Junction, Colorado, and refused to come out. When they changed at Grand Junction the retiring conductor notified the incoming conductor, John Corlisk, of the Chinaman's presence. Thirty miles west of Grand Junction, brakeman Ganing got on a box and broke in the transout of the Chinaman out. Suddenly the door opened and Lae Shung sprang out with a kuife in his hand and made a lunge at the brakeman, narrowly missing ripping him up. Ganning ran to the next ear. Shung then ran about terporizing the thirty passengers in everything; nor was it a mere superficial knowledge—it was thorough and practical. Those who got to know him fairly well say that he did not force on one the fact that he was posted—it was only when drawn into a conversation that one became impressed with a realization that he was listening to a man who spoke knowingly. He had but little to say, but that little contained a great deal. He had been an extonsive traveler and was able to talk entertainingly of half a dezon countries, their customs, etc. His great pastries, their customs, etc. His great passion was for books; they were, he said, his only dissipation. He had in his room a choice stock of fine cigarettee, tobeco and cigars, most of which were of foreign brands, and of a quality calculated to make a smoker forget all troubles as he smoked.
